INDIAN MARKET SCENARIO

India's rapidly rising population has led to an increase in the requirement of all resources, including energy and water. This underscores the need for efficient production and distribution of food. Reduction in food loss thanks to enhanced refrigeration systems across the cold chain ecosystem, has a myriad of benefits right from feeding the massive population and conserving resources required for cultivation, as well as being environmentally friendly. With India's rise to global prominence in the world of agricultural produce, consumption, and exports, advanced refrigeration systems stand to play a pivotal role.

ABOUT SUMMIT

PHD Chamber of Commerce and Industry is thrilled to announce that after the huge response received from the India Cold Chain Conclave (ICCC) organized in Delhi, we are now bringing the three-day event at Jaipur, Rajasthan.

The Summit will focus on the requirement for improvement in Cold Chain infrastructure in Rajasthan along with the improvement in integration between different players in the supply chain, such as farmers, processors, and distributors.

The Summit will also deliberate on the challenges faced by the Industry like High costs of Setting up and maintaining cold storage facilities and refrigerated transport, Lack of awareness in farmers and small-scale producers on the benefits of cold chain and resources or knowledge to access the Cold Chain infrastructure available.

The Summit will also explore the solutions for the Lack of regulation in the cold chain industry which may lead to issues such as substandard facilities and poor transport practices and Power supply, which is a big challenge in Rajasthan, as the state suffers from frequent power cuts, which affects the functioning of cold storage facilities.
